

Coconut Fractionated

DESCRIPTION

Fractionated Coconut oil is one of the most popular carrier oils used in aromatherapy today. This is not to be confused with regular coconut oil. “Fractionated” coconut oil is just that, a fraction of coconut oil. The fatty acid, Lauric acid is often removed leaving caprylic acid and capric acid making it a saturated oil that remains liquid even in cooler temperatures and has an exceptionally long shelf life. This oil is great to use topically in massage therapy as it absorbs into skin without leaving an overly greasy feeling.

DETAILS

Botanical Name: Fractionated

Extraction Method: Heat Processed

Aroma: Fractionated Coconut oil is Odorless

Shelf life: Indefinite; Fractionated Coconut oil does not spoil as long as it's stored correctly -out of direct sunlight at cool/room temperature.

THERAPEUTIC PROPERTIES

Fractionated Coconut oil is an all around oil that has a wide range of uses. Most popularly, this oil is used as a carrier oil blended with your favorite essential oils to then apply topically. This oil is great at moisturizing dry/cracked skin leaving behind a soft, supple finish. Fractionated Coconut oil is also widely used as a makeup remover as well as to moisturize dry hair follicles.

SAFETY, STORAGE AND SHELF LIFE

Although rare, some may have an allergic reaction to this oil. Apply to small test area before large topical use.

We have some additional information about essential oil storage on our blog.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

You can view the rest of our carrier oil selection by clicking here.